

1

2

Abstract

3

4

5

6

7

A recording target error rate is selected for one or more of data storage devices, and for each data storage device, a dither value is determined for each read/write head in the data storage device, wherein for each head, using a dither value for writing data, essentially provides the selected recording target error for all the heads.

20060707 10043597.010902